MISCELLANEOUS.

THE OLD SCHOOL-HOUSE.

My school-desk!—it is many a year since in this little room, I lingered over my tiresome task, And longed for noon to come. Or watched the lengthening shadows Along the dusty floor. And tried to catch one golden gleam Of sunlight through the door.
Here in this place I cut my name— I fondly hoped 'twould last! Another hand has since effaced The records of the past.
But on the time-worn window sill The very words remain, In which I tried to paint my love For charming "Mary Jane."
Methinks I see the fairy now, With curls of golden ring, A mouth a dimpled into smiles, And eyes of sweet blue.
I have a sunny curl I stole Of that same golden hair; Alas, romance! or Mary now Is "forty, fat and fat!"

The Church and the Tavern.

BY LAURIE TODD.

In the year 1793, when Louis the Sixteenth was beheaded, and the French revolution was in full blast, I was a thoroughly-going radical. With seventeen more of our club, I was marched under the guard of the king's officers, and lodged in Edinburgh jail. After a summary hearing, I got liberty to banish myself, and accordingly I took passage in the good ship Providence, and landed at New York in June, 1794. I was then in my twenty-second year. When the ship cast off from the wharf in Scotland, and swung round with the breeze, my father stood upon the shore. He waved a last adieu, and exclaimed, "Remember the Sabbath day." I arrived at New York on a Saturday, and the next day being the Sabbath, at nine o'clock, three young men of our company called at my lodging.

"Where are you going to-day?" they inquired.

"To church," I replied.

"We have been tea weeks at sea; our health requires exercise. Let us walk out to-day, and go to church next Sabbath," they replied.

Said I, "You may go where you please. I'll go to church. The last words I heard from my father were, 'Remember the Sabbath day,' and had I no respect for the Fourth Commandment, I have not forgotten his last advice."

"They went to the fields; I went to the church; they spent forty or fifty cents in the tavern; I put one penny bit in the plate, in the morning, afternoon, and night service; total, three pence."

They continued going in the country, and in process of time the landlady's daughter and the landlady's niece would join their company. Then each couple hired a gig at ten dollars a day, wine, cakes, and ice-cream on the road fifty cents each time; dinner at Jamaica one dollar each. They got home at eight o'clock, r. a., half drunk, and after having been caught in a thunder shower, their coats, hats, and umbrellas were damaged fifty per cent. They arose the next morning, at 9 o'clock, A. M., with sore heads, sore hearts, and muddy boots, and angry consciences; besides two dollars higher than when they started. I went to church, rose at 5 A. M., had a sound, quiet night, bones refreshed, conscience quiet, and commenced the labors of the week in peace and plenty. They were all mechanics, some of them could earn twelve dollars a week. My business, that of a wrought nail maker, was poor; they cut down my wages to a shilling. With close application, I could only earn five dollars and fifty cents per week. Never mind—at the end of the year, my Sabbath-riding shipmates had fine coats, fine hats, powdered heads, and ruffled shirts; but I had one hundred hard dollars piled in the corner of my chest. Having lived fast, they died early. Nearly forty winters are past since the last was laid in the Potter's or some other field; while I, having received from my Maker a good constitution, and common sense to take care of it, I am as sound in mind, body, and spirits, as I was this day fifty-six years ago, when first I set my foot on shore at Governor's wharf, New York; besides, it is a fact, (for which my family can vouch,) I have been only one day confined to the house by sickness during that period.

Now, Mr. Printer, I dare say you think with me, that the church on the Sabbath is better than the tavern and fields for laboring men.

HUMAN EVERGREENS.

—Some singers appear to be always young—the Italians in particular. Not long ago, a gentleman who goes very seldom to the opera, but who possesses an excellent memory, said to Madame Grisi, "It is astonishing how like you are to your mother."

"You knew my mother?" inquiringly remarked the lady.

"Certainly; I perfectly recollect hearing her in Paris, in 1832, when she played in Norma."

"But, sir, it was I whom you heard."

"Oh! that is indeed a joke!"

This gentleman never would believe that the Grisi of our day was the Grisi of 1832; and he carried his gallantry so far as to get positively out of temper about a reality which he treated as a mystification.

When does a man devour a musical instrument? When he has a piano-forte (piano for tea.)

A clergyman, once, dwelling on the prowess of Sampson, remarked that among his other feats he had on one occasion, with the jaw-bone of an ass, put a thousand Philistines to the sword.

Why is a beggar like a baker? They both knead (need) bread.

Fanny Fern out Again.

"The Love of a spirited woman is stronger, and better worth having than that of any other female individual you can start."—[EX.]

I wish I had known that before! I'd have plucked up a little spirit if it had most killed me, and not gone trembling through creation like a plucked chicken afraid of every animal I ran a row of.

I haven't dared to say my soul was my own since the day I was married, and every time Mr. Fern came into the entry and sat down that great cane of his with a thump, you might have heard my teeth chatter down in the cellar! I always keep one eye on him in company to see if I am saying the right thing; and the middle of the sentence is the place for me to stop (I can tell you) if his black eyes snap—it is so aggravating to find out my mistake at this time of day. I ought to have set up my Ebenezer and carried a stiff upper lip, long ago. Wonder if LITTLE women can look dignified? Wonder how it would do to turn right straight about now? I'll try it.

Harry will come presently, and thunder out as usual, "Fanny, why the deuce isn't dinner ready?" I'll just set my teeth together, put my arms a kimbo, and look him straight—oh, mercy! I can't! I should dissolve. There would be nothing left of me but a sugar plum! You might pick me up in a teaspoon! Bless your soul, he's a six-footer; such whiskers (none of your sham sentiments). Such eyes; and such a NICE mouth—Come to think of it, I really believe I love him. Guess I'll jog along the old way!

Tyranny of the petticoats.

Some recent writer in pantaloons states the case as follows:

"We males swagger, and talk of our superiority, but only the savage has practical domination over the 'weaker sex,' simply because he bangs his refractory female in lordly style! We don't beat our women, and are therefore, slaves; we are forced to knock under because we have fastidious notions of knocking them down! This may be quite correct! Only state the fact without commentary. Unhappily woman is a tyrant. A little blonde creature, with fair eyes, fragile figure, whom you could crush in your mainy grasp, somehow or other you find yourself trembling before, as before a crowned potentate. She bends you to her purposes, to her caprices; if you quarrel not before her anger, she rushes into hysterics! What is helpless, and above all, clueless man to do? Be meek and acquiescent."

Upon this text, Miss Fanny Fern, in the Boston Olive Branch, makes the following comments:

"Of course, no other way, my dear sir, if you want your shirt made to suit you, your old pants resuscitated, dinner kept warm, or any other little accommodation, (when you are in a hurry, and can't stop to discuss matters) 'Claspless man! like that; I'd like to know if they don't always resort to ARMS when they intend to subdue us! (I merely ask for the information, I am an old maid myself.) Now, there's no use in trying to drive any of the female gender—I'm one of the sisters, and feel myself qualified to 'take the floor,' Mr. Chairman! There's no necessity for making such a bungling piece of work of matrimony, either—Were I a man, I'd engage to manage any wife you could bring along. (Between you and I, I should keep the bits and reins out of sight—but I'd do it.) She should be as docile as a kitten, and behave herself master of the house, not Oh, poor! you don't understand the philosophy of the very thing—'Isn't every man that has a 'cell to be a husband?' Do you suppose if you feed and clothe a woman, and keep her warm, that's the end of the chapter? Pshaw! Imagine me to be TOM FERN! When I came home from the Office, I should take a microscopic view of my dear Fanny's face to see which way the wind blew. If she looked dull, from the thousand petty annoyances of housekeeping, I should just put my arm around her blessed little neck, (never mind collars and fixins.) and tell her I'd care a dam—aged cuss whether I had my favorite pudding or not, if she only loved me. Wouldn't she brighten up, hey? Do you suppose that I'd go staving up and down the room like a hyena, and knock down her work-basket, and tread on the baby and break the bell-wire, and scowl till I looked like one of those 'gouty percha, phixins!' No, sir! Then I'd kiss her, and tell her to keep up her spirits till I came home at night, and we'd have an early tea, and hear Tommy say his prayers, and go to (well I DARENT say it; but I DARE take her there!)"

Well, sir, the consequence would be, she would see I was the same fascinating Tom who begged her to go on my marrow-bones moonlight evening to make me the happiest of men; and there isn't one woman in a thousand (treated in that way) that wouldn't fly to you till— you were as happy as a fly in a molasses cup! As to a meek man, defend me from Betsy in corduroys! I'd prefer to endure the 'bang of a refractory female!'—I'd rather be under a tyrant than over a Joseph!

[FANNY FERN.]

A couple of lads named James Merritt and Jacob Pelton, whose parents reside on the Kentucky shore, were drowned near the Jamestown ferry landing, yesterday afternoon, by the sinking of a leaky skiff, in which they were attempting to cross the river.

A Chapter on Barking Dogs.

It is an old saying—and there is a good deal of truth in it—that 'barking dogs never bite.' I say there is a good deal of truth in it. Is it not strictly true. Almost all dogs bark a little now and then. Still I believe those dogs bark the most that bite the least, and the dogs that make the practice of biting the hardest and the oftener, make very little noise about it.

Have you never been passing by a house, and seen a little pocket-edition of a car run out at the front-door yard to you, with ever so much bravery and heroism, as if he intended to eat you up at two or three mouthfuls? What a barking he set up! The meaning of his bone, wine, every time he repeated the words was 'I'll bite you! I'll bite you! That's what I will!' But the very moment you turned round and faced him, he ran back into the yard as if forty tigers were after him. You see he was all bark and no bite.

Well, it is the same with men and women, and boys and girls, as it is with dogs. Those who bark most, bite least; the world over.

Show me a boy who talks about being as bold as a lion, and I will show you one with a heart of a young rabbit, just learning to eat cabbage. I do dislike to see boys and girls boasting of what they can do. It always gives me a low opinion of their merits.

There is Tom Thresher. You don't know Tom, do you? Well, he is one of your barking dogs. He is all the time boasting of the great things he is able to do. Nobody ever saw him do any such things. Still he keeps on boasting, right in the midst of young people who know him through and through, a great deal better than he knows himself. It is strange that he should brag at that rate where everybody knows him.

I must tell you a story about this Tom Thresher. Poor Tom! he got his match not long ago, by some fun-loving boys that lived in his neighborhood. Tom had been boasting of his great feats in jumping. He could jump higher than any boy on Blue Hill. In fact, he had just jumped over Captain Corning's goat-pasture fence, which, as everybody knows, was eight rails high, and verily believed he had cleared it just as easily, if it had been two rails higher. This was the kind of language he used to his company of boys. They did not believe a word he said.

Let's try Tom, one whispered to another; let's try the fellow, and see how high he can jump.

I say, Tom, said one of the boys, will you go down to the Captain's goat-pasture with us, and try that thing over again?

Tom did not seem very fierce for going. But all the boys urged him so hard, that he finally consented. When he got to the pasture, he measured the fence with his eye; and from the manner in which he shrugged his shoulders, it was pretty clear that he considered the fence a very high one indeed. He was not at all in a hurry about preforming the feat, but the regular boys would not let him off.

'Come Tom!' said one.

'Now for it!' said another.

'No backing out!' said a third.

'It's only eight rails high!' said a fourth.

Said, somehow or other, Tom could not get his courage quite up to the point. The best thing he could have done, in my way of thinking, when he found himself so completely cornered, was to have said, 'Well, boys, there's no use in mincing the matter at all. I am a little dunc. I can no more jump over that fence than I can build a steamboat, or catch a streak of lightning.' But that was not his way of getting out of the scrape.

'Let me give the word,' said one of the lads.

'I'll say 'one, two, three,' and when I come to 'three,' you shall run and jump.'

'Go ahead,' says Tom.

And the other boy began: 'One, two, three.'

Tom started and ran. I'm not sure but he had boasted so much about his jumping, that he had almost made himself believe he really could jump over that fence. At any rate, he tried it, and—failed, of course. His feet struck the fence about three quarters of the distance from the ground, and over he went, head foremost, into the goat-pasture! It was fortunate for him that he did not break his neck. As it was, his spirit of boasting was broken, and that was about all. He went home much humbler than when he came to the goat-pasture, and a somewhat wiser boy, I hope.

A man, praising Porter, said it was so excellent a beverage, that taken in large quantities, it always made him fat—'I have seen the time said another, 'when it made you lean.' 'When I, 'Tom, who begged her to go on my marrow-bones moonlight evening to make me the happiest of men; and there isn't one woman in a thousand (treated in that way) that wouldn't fly to you till— you were as happy as a fly in a molasses cup! As to a meek man, defend me from Betsy in corduroys! I'd prefer to endure the 'bang of a refractory female!'—I'd rather be under a tyrant than over a Joseph!'

John's wife and John were tele-a-tete: She witty was, industrious he; Says John, 'I've earned the bread we've ate,' And I, 'says she, 'have wr'd the tea.'

"Spectability am Eberyting."

A very readable novel, entitled Giffon has lately made its appearance, in which the author happily illustrates, by way of dialogue, a few of the leading peculiarities of "cruel passions of spectability."

The following is an extract.

"If you please," Colonel Miller," said the over-seer, "Pilot wants to marry Philis."

"Is her mother willing?"

"Yes, sir."

"Send him to me."

"Mr. Clifton, we will now visit the cotton gin."

"Do you raise cotton, too?"

"Oh, yes, a dozen acres."

They approached a frame building, in which there were immense quantities of cotton, some of it prepared and ready for market, while a large amount had only been removed from the boll.

"The cotton gin is almost indispensable. How did you ever do without it?"

"The process of extracting the seeds was slow and laborious. We were under great obligations to the inventor of the machine, without it we could not supply the world with cotton."

"Well, Pilot, what do you want?"

The question was addressed to a powerful negro, that stood awkwardly twirling his hat, as he cast furtive glances at his master.

"Speak out fellow, you have not been guilty of any misconduct, have you?"

"No, no, massa, I've any fallen in lub wid, Miss Phillis."

"And you want to marry her?"

"If you please, massa, I should like to be united to her in matrimony."

"Will you make her a kind and affectionate husband?"

"Sartin, massa; I will shield her from de winds ob heaven."

"Very well, then, marry her. But recollect if you do not treat her kindly, I will sell you."

"Nebber fear, massa!"

And the happy fellow walked off with a stately dignity for a few steps; and then, unable to retain his feelings, he exclaimed: "Phillis am mine!"—and then followed those feats by which an African indicates his pleasure. He threw himself on the ground, and rolled over several times, he at last sprang up, and rapidly turned several summersets. He finished his demonstrations by throwing his arms around a negro who was leaning upon a post, and squeezed him against the timber with such violence that he fairly writhed with pain.

"Slaves rarely make cruel husbands," observed Colonel Miller; "but it is well nevertheless, to keep them under a wholesome restraint."

The Southern negroes we are given to understand in Clifton, are very "aristocratic" in their feelings and notions. Those who belong to wealthy individuals, lawyers, successful politicians, distinguished officers, and public persons, hold themselves apart from the colored fraternity who they consider less fortunate. The fact is well illustrated in the following passage:

"They have a moral aversion to any one who is poverty stricken, whether he be white or black. It is the prominent feature in the negro character. I have often been amused at the conversation of my slaves, when they thought my attention directed to something else. Hark! we will hear it illustrated now."

"Ise tell you what, Sambo, you've been wid Miss Tucker quite long 'nuff; you knows berry well dat her massa am extricably involved in det, and still you pay her 'tention."

"You mus' confes, Dinah, de gal am beautiful."

"And 'spos she am, what den? Does dat make her massa rich, consequently, 'spectable? You ought to be old 'nuff to no dat 'spectability am eberyting in dis world, and who can hab dat widout money?"

"But de gal ain't to blame 'case her massa am 'bliged to mortgage all his plunder."

"It am her misfortune, misfortune individuals mus' 'sociate togeder. Day can't 'spect the hairistocracy to elevate dem."

"But I see you Dinah, conversing wid Tom White de lortier's man."

"And 'spos you did den he'd 'b long to our self! Don't his massa practice at de barroom? You ar'n't acquainted with nuffin Sambo; you are a monstous 'grat nigger, can't you see dat 'siet makes 'sissions between people who am engaged in different occupations? De lortier, de rich man, de politician, and de sufferer, and sufferer, am 'slered 'spectable berry 'spectable. Fashionable persons mus' 'sociate wid each oder. Dey ain't 'spected to stoop down to de level of everybody. Nebber call de onfashionable up to your own personal merit, to keep up dem who war once your equals, but who had fallen. Others 'society wid fashionable, who am fashionable, none."

"Well, I don't see 'cassie why a gal happen to 'b long to a poor man, dat she should 'ceive no, 'tention howsoever."

"Dat is case your education had been ob de vulgar horder. Now you hab been sold into a respectable family, you mus' conduct your self as sich."

"But how can poor nigger tell fashionable colored women?"

"Ladies, Sambo, ladies, you mus' draw a 'sinction atween women and ladies. Dey am seprated by impassable ditch. How can you tell a fashionable lady? Why, by de company she keeps! Dat's de invariable rule. And if you are 'grat of genul' 'siet, cut all but dem who 'b long to individuals wid whom master and missus 'sociates. Don't I speak your sentimentality, ladies and gentlemen?"

"You hab dewined de extinction correspondently, Miss Dinah."

These ladies of the ton then changed the subject of conversation.

New Remedy for Low Spirits.

In Paris, a short time ago, a manufacturer happened to be dining with a magistrate. All the guests were enjoying the lively talk of a novelist, who also works for the theatre, and by the way works exceedingly well. That evening he was full of fun; his wit sparkled like a discharge of fire-works. The dinner went off like a flash of lightning.

When they had left the table, the manufacturer took the novelist aside, and with a low, said—

"Ah, monsieur, how much you have gratified me!"

"Monsieur!"

"No, really—you have a great reputation for talent; but I did not expect to find you so amusing."

"But, Monsieur!"

"Monsieur," continued the manufacturer, "my wife is indisposed."

"Ah!"

"For sometime past she has been dull and out of spirits. Would you have the goodness to come and dine with me one of these days? You will amuse her."

"You believe that I shall amuse your wife?"

"I do, indeed. Do come."

"Very well, Monsieur; but of course you know the terms?"

"The manufacturer stared at the novelist. 'The terms!' he repeated, like a man who tries to understand what is meant."

"Certainly," replied the other, without hesitation; "when I dine out—with a manufacturer—that's five hundred francs."

"Ah!"

"To be sure. You manufacture chemicals, or cotton goods, or beet-root sugar, or heaven knows what. You sell those things, and get your living by them, don't you?"

"Yes; but—"

"I continued the novelist, 'work my brains, and I live by what I can spin out of them; that's my merchandise, you understand. When a gentleman invites me to dinner, to amuse his wife, who is dull, that's six hundred francs.'

"What a capital joke!"

"No joke at all!—Madam, your wife, is a little ill. Elle Eien! send me the cash, and I will come and divert her."

The dinner has not yet been reported.

The President of the U. S. has addressed the following letter to the heads of Departments regarding the death of their late associate Daniel Webster.

EXECUTIVE MANSION, WASHINGTON, Oct. 28, 1852.

GENTLEMEN:—The painful intelligence received yesterday, enforces upon me the sad duty of announcing to the Executive Departments, the death of the Secretary of State, Daniel Webster, who died in Marshfield, Mass., on Sunday, the 24th of October, between the hours of 2 and 3 in the morning. While this irreparable loss brings its natural sorrow to every American heart, and will be heard far beyond our borders with mournful respect wherever civilization has nurtured men, who find in transcendent intellect and faithful patriotic service a field for praise; it will visit with still more poignant emotion, his colleagues in the administration, with whom his relations have been so intimate and cordial. The fame of our illustrious statesman belongs to his country. The admiration of it, to the world. The records of his wisdom will inform future generations, no less than his utterance has enlightened the present. He has bequeathed to posterity the richest fruits of the experience and judgment of a great mind.

Consistent with the greatest national concerns, in this his country shall continue to be the home, and the guardian of free men. The people will share with the Executive Department in the common grief which befalls his departure from amongst us. In the expression of individual regret at this afflictive event, the Executive Departments of the Government will be careful to manifest every observance of honor which custom has established, as appropriate to the memory of one so eminent as a public functionary and so distinguished as a citizen. The Acting Secretary of State will communicate this intelligence to the Diplomatic Corps near this Government, and through our Ministers abroad to foreign Governments.

The Cabinet are requested, as a further testimony of the respect for the deceased, to wear the usual badges of mourning for thirty days.

I am, gentlemen, your ob't. servant,
MILWAUKEE, WIS.

To the Acting Secretary of State, and the Secretaries of Treasury, Interior, War and Navy, Attorney General and Post Master General.

Webster's Will, Papers, &c.

A telegraphic despatch from Boston, says:

He dictated his will himself, with remarkable particularity and precision, and as some length, two days before his death.

His private papers have all been swaled up, and with his will, have been deposited in the vault of one of the Boston banks, where they will remain until after the funeral.

His executors are his widow, Caroline Leroy Webster, Fletcher Webster, and R. M. Blanchard, of your city.

I hear that an authentic narrative of surpassing interest, of the great man's last days and hours, will be given to the public.

MASSACHUSETTS, Oct. 29.

Webster's funeral was attended to day by upwards of 10,000 persons.

Among them was Franklin O. Pierce, Gov. May, Abbott Lawrence, Gov. Boutwell, Ex-Chancellor Jones, of New York, Judge Sprague and others.

The service was very simple and conducted by Rev. Mr. Allen, of the parish. Webster was buried on his own grounds with his wife and children.

Battles of the Revolution.

A correspondent of the Norfolk Herald has taken the pains to compile the following table showing the comparative losses of life sustained in the principal battles of the Revolution. He says he may have made some trifling errors, but that the statistics are mainly correct:

"Do the signs of the times indicate the perpetuity of the American Government?" Hearken unto us, oh ye virgins! give ear unto our words, oh ye frisky maids! Vengeance draweth near unto your institutions, and desolation will swallow up your pleasures. No more shall ye decoy your young men. Behold! the time draweth nigh when your banes shall be taken, and when your daughters shall take unto themselves wings and fly away, and ye shall be left desolate.

CONSTITUTION OF THE Lone Star Bachelor Club.

Preamble. Aware of the many perils and dangers to which the young men of Centre are exposed, when left without any safeguard to the tender mercies of the Ladies of Boyle, and knowing that through false influence many have been rendered prodigious fools—We, whose names are hereunto affixed, deploring the condition of those of our fellow-students who are daily listening to the siren song, and blindly sporting on the brink of a matrimonial grave, do boldly array ourselves in opposition to the growing evil, and for the dissemination of our views and principles, and the success of our glorious cause, adopt the following constitution and by-laws:

SECTION I. This association shall be denominated the Lone Star Bachelor Club.

SECTION II. The members of this Club shall consist of Students in regular attendance at Centre College, and such other gentlemen as the Club may elect.

SECTION III. Art. 1. The officers of this Club shall consist of a Judge, an Assistant Judge, Prosecuting Attorney, and Sheriff, who shall be elected viva voce for a term of 4 weeks.

Art. 2. It shall be the duty of the Judge to preside at all regular meetings of the Club, call the house to order, appoint committees, appoint jurors, impose fines, and see that the rules of the Club shall be enforced. His decision shall be final in all cases, unless reversed by a vote of two-thirds of the members present.

Art. 3. It shall be the duty of the Assistant Judge to preside in the absence or inability of the Judge.

Art. 4. It shall be the duty of the Prosecuting Attorney to prosecute to the best of his ability all members arraigned for the violation of the conservative laws of this Club. He shall have the privilege of choosing an assistant.

Art. 5. It shall be the duty of the Sheriff to keep a correct and faithful account of all the proceedings of the Club. He shall also act as Treasurer.

SECTION IV. The exercises of the Club shall consist of reports of committees, trials of offenders, and harangues from individual members on matrimonial subjects.

BY-LAWS.

Article 1. No one shall be admitted to membership in this Club, who does not evince signs of sincere repentance for all acts of gallantry of which he may have been guilty, and promise to exert himself to carry out the designs of this honorable and respected body, vex to reclaim our fellow-students and others in whom we may be interested, from the blandishments of the fair sex, and render them invincible, unchangeable and praiseworthy bachelors.

Art. 2. Any member who shall treat with disrespect any one of the opposite sex, shall be considered a most flagrant transgressor of our laws.

Art. 3. It shall be the duty of each and every member of this Club to harass and put to confusion all such reputable young men of Centre as refuse to flee from the blandishments of the charmers, by whom they have so long been misled, but persist in making evening calls, taking moonlight walks, heaving love-sick sighs, casting sentimental glances, and all such demoralizing and disreputable practices.

Art. 4. It shall be the duty of every member to avoid the society of ladies, when consistently with politeness he may do so—but on no conditions can impoliteness be allowed.

Art. 5. Any member who shall attend a lady to a public meeting, lecture or concert, or a party of any kind whatsoever, unless the lady attended be attired in the Bloomer costume, shall be subject to a fine, and believing that the pockets of the verdant youths have too long been made to swell on such occasions, the lady attended shall be expected to meet all the pecuniary liabilities.

Art. 6. Any member who shall so far forget the respect due to himself and the honor of the Club, as to kiss or hug any lady, damsel, or female baby, shall be suspended and receive a severe reprimand from the Judge.

Art. 7. Should a member of the Club unfortunately receive an invitation to attend at any place where refreshments are to be expected, he shall use all lawful means to comply, and if compelled to engage in conversation with the ladies, he shall be careful to talk to each and all of them on the same subject or on nearly as possible making use of the same words, in order that the fair maidens may find no discrepancies when they meet to compare notes, as is their custom.

Art. 8. No member shall walk or ride on the public street with a lady, when consistently with politeness he may avoid it.

Art. 9. Any member may pay his address to a lady on the winter side of forty, without being considered a violator of our laws.

Art. 10. All Old Bachelors of good standing in the community may be elected honorary members of the Club.

Art. 11. A committee of three shall be appointed at each regular meeting, whose duty it shall be to report at the meeting following their appointment, on any subject of interest to the society.

Art. 12. The fund arising from the fines imposed, shall be devoted to the purchase of canals for the Club.

Art. 13. Each member shall at all times denounce babies as nuisances, and young married couples as disturbers of the public peace.

ORDER OF EXERCISES.

The members being assembled at the appointed time and place, the meeting shall be called to order by the Judge, and opened by singing that time-honored song "Old Billy Grimes," or the "Scolding Wife," or any others which the honorable Club may prefer. The roll being called, the Club shall next hear the report of committees. Next in order, the Prosecuting Attorney shall be called upon to make his charges, and then proceed with the trials.

"How tedious and tasteless the hours," Whenever the women are near, For nonsense, Knob parties and flowers, Are all that e'er strikes on the ear.

We know that the creatures are sweet, But, young men, you have something to fear, Whenever you kneel at their feet, "I'm engaged," you are certain to hear.

Then join in the Bachelor Chorus, Ye ladies! men, come out and all, Your mouths shall pass like a song, And when abroad you shall walk no dog will ever bark at you.

AUGUSTUS MAXIMILIAN VON THUNDERBUNGS, President.
BOLIVAR SNATCHEDOWN, Vice President.
TOBIAS WHITSTONE, Pros. Attorney.

IN UNION THERE IS STRENGTH.

DANVILLE, KY.,
Friday Morning, Nov. 5, 1852.

THE RESULT.—The election is over, and the returns thus far received from all parts of the country clearly indicate the election of Pierce and King. That our party has been defeated, there is no room in our mind for a doubt. The result reflects anything but credit upon the American people. It is a triumph of doing nothing over everything—a triumph of party prejudice over principle—and the defeat of the greatest living men by one who had scarcely been heard of previous to his nomination.

We deplore this result, because we believe the highest and best interests of the country were dependent upon Gen. Scott's election, and we have fearful forebodings and apprehensions at this untold evil, which will come upon our country. The Presidential office was a small matter personally to Gen. Scott. He can feel no regret or mortification at his defeat. To Gen. Pierce, his election was of vast moment to his name and fame, for the high office to which he has been elevated, could alone rescue his name from the ignominious obscurity in which he has lived to this time, and thus connected it with the history of his country. Neither victory or defeat can add one cubit to the stature of the illustrious standard bearer of the Whig party, or increase or diminish his world-wide fame.

Nothing can cover his high fame but heaven. No pyramid set off his memory but the eternal substance of his great name.

So far as heard from, the great mass of the foreign vote was as usual cast for the Democratic party. We doubt not that thousands and tens of thousands of illegal votes were given to Pierce and King. The Louisville Courier says, that in that city four clubs attempted to vote on papers which, upon investigation, were found to be licenses to sell liquor in Madison, and others were detected in the attempt to vote on their first papers.

Fire in Stanford.
On Tuesday night last, the frame part of the "Hoffman House," in Stanford, Ky., was destroyed by fire. We understand that a good deal of furniture was burned, and that it was only by the most strenuous and prize-worthy exertions of the citizens that the brick part of the house and the adjoining buildings were saved.

LOUISVILLE COURIER.—W. D. GALLAGHER, Esq., a celebrated political and literary writer, has purchased an interest in the Louisville Courier, and will hereafter assist Mr. Haldeman in the editorial department of that excellent paper.

The Legislature of Mississippi has closed its extra session without being able to elect a U. S. Senator.

The recent cool weather has roused the young folks of this county to a lively sense of their duty. See the marriage notices in another column.

Southwestern Railroad.
Taylor county right side up!
On Saturday, the 23d ult., Taylor county voted by a majority of 250 in favor of the railroad tax.

THE BEET BEATEN.—A lady, whose name we cannot ascertain, has sent us two Beets, one weighing 3 and the other 7½ pounds. They were accompanied by the following note:

Mr. ZIMMERMAN—I noticed in your last paper, an account of a beet weighing 6 pounds and measuring 21 inches in circumference. Here are two, either of which I think will beat that. But on Tuesday next the Democracy will beat the Whigs much worse than the Democratic bees beat the Whig beet.

A DEMOCRATIC LADY.
There! we knock under now. The big beet is beaten. But, Moses! how we would hate to have that strong a Democrat for a wife! Talk about women not being politicians! Why, we'll bet our old beaver that this good lady can talk politics faster than half the men in the county.

THE WHIG BEETS STILL AHEAD!—Since the above was in type, we have received from Mr. Robert Bledsoe, of this county, a Whig Beet, weighing 8½ pounds—just half a pound ahead. Politics and beets! Go it, my Colonel!

WASHINGTON NATIONAL MONUMENT.—The block of marble from Texas, for the Washington National Monument, has been received at Washington, and duly presented to the Board of Managers. California is about to send three blocks, the one previously sent not being deemed by some of its citizens of sufficient magnitude and beauty. The one from Texas is said to be equal to the finest specimens yet received, and completes the full complement of blocks from all the States of the Union.

Vote of Boyle County.

This county has done nobly. The following is the full vote, and shows that the Whigs of Boyle did their duty well on Tuesday last. Perryville usually gives a very good Democratic majority, but nevertheless gave the Scott ticket a majority of 10.

District No.	Scott.	Pierce.
District No. 1, (Perryville),	145	142
" No. 2, "	75	71
" No. 3, (Danville),	219	59
" No. 4, "	164	51
	603	323

Maj. for Scott and Graham, 280

ELECTION RETURNS.

KENTUCKY.

The returns of this State so far as received, indicate that Scott's majority in the State is from 3,000 to 5,000.

Boyle county—Scott 603; Pierce 323.

Casey—Scott's majority about 225 or 250.

Lincoln—Hustonsville, 81 maj. for Scott. Maj. in the county about 300.

Maysville, Scott 19 maj.

Glasgow, Scott's maj. 141.

NEW YORK.

New York, P. M.

In eight wards of the city of New York Pierce has a gain of about eight thousand on Cass vote.

Whole majority for Pierce in the city of New York about 10,000.

Rochester gives Scott 150; Genesee 153; Lima 57; Albion 40; Brighton, West 15; Erie, 41 majority for Pierce, Syracuse 23 majority for Pierce.

Buffalo, 243 majority.

Niagara, Upwards of 90 maj for Scott.

PENNSYLVANIA.

Lancaster county, Estimated Scott 5,300 majority.

York county, Scott's maj. 353.

Philadelphia City and county, Pierce estimated 2000 majority.

OHIO.

Scioto county, Scott's majority about 600.

Meigs, one township gives Scott a majority of 150—gain of 4 votes.

Ross, as far as heard from, safe for Scott.

Hamilton, probably 3500 majority for Pierce.

Greene county, Scott 987 majority.

Richland, Pierce 1100.

Lucas county, Scott small majority.

Gallipolis, Scott 160—gain 22 over State election.

Lynn, Huron co., Scott 120 majority.

Whig gain of 50.

Eliza county, Pierce 20 maj.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 2, P. M.

Majority for Pierce 1781. Pierce's majority in Hamilton county supposed to be about 4,000.

MASSACHUSETTS.

Boston, Scott 8,877; Pierce 4,566; Hale 1,311; Webster 1,018.

Springfield, Scott 936; Pierce 25, Hale 239.

Sixty-five towns in this State show gains for Pierce of 25,000. Charleston gives Pierce 500 majority; Taylor had 500 in 1848.

Worcester, Pierce 80 majority, gave Taylor 1800.

The returns from the western part of the State are not so decisive, and it is thought Scott may carry the State by 5000.

The Democrats are marching through the streets with music and fire-works.

TENNESSEE.

In the city of Memphis Scott gains 154 over Taylor's vote. Two precincts in the county 43 gain for Scott.

MAINE.

The returns show that Pierce has carried the State by a large majority.

LOUISIANA.

Partial returns received at New Orleans, indicate that the State has gone for Pierce.

VIRGINIA.

Richmond 850 majority for Scott. Alexandria, Scott 61 maj. Fredericksburg, Pierce 44 maj. Petersburg, Pierce's maj. 245. Williamsport, Wood county, Scott's maj. 50; this has always been a Democratic precinct.

MICHIGAN.

Detroit, 500 majority for Pierce.

We submit the following scattering returns.

St. Louis, Nov. 2.

Weston, Mo., Scott 37 majority.

St. Joseph, Pierce 62 majority.

Parkville, Pierce 61 majority.

Liberty, Scott 178 majority.

Arrow Rock, Pierce majority 50.

Independence, Pierce majority 28.

St. Louis, 1st, 2d, and 4th wards give Pierce 1050 majority.

Vincennes, Ind., Scott 247 majority—gain over Wright's vote 110.

Kenosha, Wisconsin, Scott 213 maj.

Peru, Ill., Pierce 17 maj.

Onawa, Ill., Pierce 100, Scott 215.

Hale 21.

Albany, N. Y., Pierce 613 maj.

Wilmington, Del., Pierce 21 maj.

Dubuque, Iowa, Pierce majority 253.

Richmond, Me., Scott 215, Pierce 240.

Detroit City, Michigan, Pierce 500 majority.

CONTRIBUTIONS TO THE WASHINGTON MONUMENT.

Boxes labelled "One Dime to the memory of Washington," were placed at the voting places in this city, and contributions to the amount of $36,55 received, which has been forwarded to Washington City.

FINE TURNIPS.

Mr. ISON VANARS, of this county, has our thanks for a bushel and a half of the finest and best Turnips we have seen this season. Mr. V. has a large quantity of them for sale.

HOGS.

The hog market appears to be rather dull at present, with but few sales. $5 net is the highest price offered by any of the packers.

DEATH AND THE PRESIDENCY.

Only two of the eminent men who have been voted for, during the last thirty years, for President, are now alive—Van Buren and Cress. Crawford, Wirt, Jackson, Adams, Harrison, Calhoun, Polk, Clay, Taylor and Webster are now no more. Van Buren and Tyler are the only living ex-Presidents.

The State Bank of Indiana maintains a circulation of $4,681,993, the largest, we believe, of any one institution in the country; though the Bank of Kentucky and Northern Bank of Kentucky taken together are larger.

Intelligence has been received of the arrival at the city of Santo Domingo, from the United States, on the 23d of August, of Colonels Ferguson and Pickens, to enter into preliminaries for the introduction into Santo Domingo of 4000 or 5000 American emigrants.

Prof. G. C. SCHAEFFER—This gentleman has received and accepted an appointment in the Patent Office of the United States, and resigned his place as Chief Engineer of the Lexington and Danville Railroad, which place he has occupied since the organization of the Company. The Board of Directors of the Company, on accepting his resignation, unanimously adopted the following well merited resolutions:

"Resolved, That in severing the connection that has so long and harmoniously existed between the Board of Directors and G. C. Schaeffer, Chief Engineer, that the Board feel it a duty and take pleasure in bearing testimony to his scientific skill in his profession, to his high attainments as a scholar, to his integrity as an officer, and to his urbanity and amiability as a gentleman."

"Resolved, That this Board highly commend him to those among whom, his lot may be cast, as an officer of pure integrity, and a gentleman of varied general attainments, worthy of confidence and respect."

Mr. Schaeffer left on the 27th ult., with his family for Washington City, to enter at once on the duties of his new office. M. S. is a man of varied learning and great versatility of talent, and we believe will make an excellent officer in the Patent department. He has held various offices of responsibility, requiring the exercise of great talents and attainments. We believe he was Lecturer on Chemistry in Columbia College, N. York. Professor of Chemistry and Natural Philosophy in Centre College, Chief Engineer of the Lex. and Dan. Railroad, and is now appointed to a high position in the U. S. Patent Office.

During his service as Engineer of the Railroad, he surveyed various routes, and located the adopted line of the road, which is admired by engineers and all well informed persons, to be the best line ever located for a railway in Kentucky. His extensive geological information gave him great advantage in making the survey and location. He first conceived and suggested the plan of crossing the Kentucky river by a suspension bridge, which at first was regarded as impossible, but is now admitted to be altogether practicable. Indeed parties are willing and anxious to contract for and guarantee the bridge. We presume, without knowing the fact, that the Company have already secured the building of the bridge by the most competent builder in this country, and one whose reputation is as great as any of the European bridge-builders. Mr. Schaeffer deserves great credit for what he has achieved, and we wish that success and happiness may attend him wherever he may go.

It appears that Mr. Smith, the purser of the Crescent City, and who is so obnoxious to the Cuban authorities, is none other than Sidney Smith, Esq., late Secretary to the British Legation at Havana. Mr. S. rendered much aid to the American prisoners in Cuba. He is an Englishman by birth, and not a citizen of the United States, and is just about as guilty of writing revolutionary documents to the Cubans as he is of being the author of the Janiss papers.

The Asiatic Cholera, which was lately raging in various parts of the U. States, the most absorbing topic for the Physician and Philanthropist, commenced in Jessore, a city in the East of Hindoostan, in 1817. In Jessore and vicinity at least 600,000 perished by it in the first year. It rapidly extended over all parts of India and most of the Eastern Continent. In 1831 it was in the centre of Europe, and the 8th of June, 1832, broke out at Quebec, having yet lost but little of its malignity. Its history since, is familiar to all.

Justice.—The Lexington Observer and Reporter, of Wednesday last says: The election is over, and it can now do no good, so far as votes are concerned to notice the speech of Governor Foote, of Mississippi, at the recent Democratic mass meeting at Jackson, Mississippi. (But as a matter of justice to Gen. Scott, who has been most unjustly assailed throughout the South, during the canvass, it is proper to notice what Gov. Foote, a Democratic and an advocate of the election of Pierce and King, there said. The Natchez Courier says, "Gov. Foote was the first speaker (at the meeting referred to) and he took the opportunity of doing full and ample justice to Gen. Scott. He said that he knew him to be an early and original friend of the compromise measures; and that the Whig platform was as sound on the question as the Democratic platform."

We presume that no one will question the fact, that Gen. Foote, who stood by Mr. Clay throughout upon that fight for the Compromise measures, knows the opinions upon the subject of one so exalted in position as Gen. Scott. He has been assailed with a bitterness and rancor which have never been surpassed, save in the case of our own lamented fellow-citizen in the memorable canvass of 1844; but we trust that he will live long enough, as did Mr. Clay, to extort even from his most rancorous assailants, the meed of praise to which he is so eminently entitled for his long life of devotion to his country.

Hon. J. F. BELL.—The Lexington Observer and Reporter contains the following merited notice of Mr. Bell's speech at that city on Monday night last:

The conclusion of the canvass was marked by much splendor on the part of the Whigs. Handbills announced the arrival in our city of the Hon. JONAS F. BELL, one of the Whig candidates for Elector for the state at large, and that he would speak to the people at the Court House at night. Our Democratic friends met at the Lower Market House.

At an early hour, the Court House was crowded to its utmost capacity, all eager to hear one whose reputation as a popular orator had long since preceded his arrival. It was the first time Mr. Bell had spoken in our city, and curiosity (if we may use the word) was much aroused to hear one of so much renown. This is always, we think, a drawback upon a public speaker, but we believe we express the united sentiment of that densely congregated audience, when we assert that he more than fulfilled the hopes of his most ardent admirers. His speech was clear, brilliant, able and eloquent, and elicited round after round of the most rapturous applause.

We say now that this canvass is over, it has developed a degree of talent and power, of which we were before unconscious, that our State possessed. We knew what was around us, but we did not know what elsewhere. Mr. Bell has been speaking in places throughout the State where no public notice could be taken of his efforts, because there were generally no papers to take such notice. He has closed his labors by as brilliant an effort as the canvass has developed, and he will retire from it with the proud satisfaction of having done his full duty, and done it in a manner to win for himself an enduring reputation.

SONS OF TEMPERANCE.—The annual session of the Grand Division S. of T., at Lexington, closed on Friday night last. A large number of Representatives were present, and a considerable amount of business interesting to the Order was transacted. The following gentlemen were elected officers for the ensuing year:

Rev. Jas. Young, of Louisville, G. W. P.; Hon. G. W. Williams, Paris, G. W. A.; J. F. Huber, of Louisville, G. Scribe; Wm. Kendrick, of Louisville, G. T.; Maj. Gen. D. S. Hayes, of Hopkinsville, G. C.; Rev. J. H. Heywood, of Louisville, G. Chap.; C. F. Brown, of Lexington, G. Sen;

Proclamation by the Governor.

Recognizing the obligations which we owe to the Sovereign Ruler of the Universe; the Dispensation of His Providence, for the establishment and security of our free institutions, which have so highly distinguished us as a Nation, and a Commonwealth for the bestowment and continuance of the lives and health of our citizens, for the tranquility, contentment and happiness of our people; for our general prosperity; and for the innumerable blessings which we enjoy—in accordance with a time honored custom,

I, LAZARUS W. POWELL, Governor of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, do hereby name and set apart Thursday, the 25th of November, 1852, as a day of Thanksgiving, and recommend its appropriate observance by all the citizens of the Commonwealth.

In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my name and caused the seal of the Commonwealth to be affixed. Done at Frankfort this 25th day of October, 1852, and in the 61st year of the Commonwealth.

By the Governor,
L. W. POWELL.

J. P. METCALFE, Secretary.

HORSE FOUND.

ON Monday morning, the 25th ult., I purchased from a young man passing by my house, a very fine Horse, which I have every reason to believe was stolen. The horse is 3 years old last spring, about 16 hands high, and a Deep Bay, without any white. His tail is rather tight, and is an upright grey horse.

The owner upon proving the property and paying for this advertisement, and the small amount which I paid for him, can get the horse called himself "SAUNDERS," but whose right name, I am told, is "MORRIS," and said he was from Green county, though it is believed from the condition and appearance of the horse that he must have travelled far.

"France united to America."

MARRIED.—In this place, on the 2d inst., by the Rev. W. F. Felt, Mr. JOHN P. THORNTON to Miss ELIZABETH P. FINE.

IT There! "Lizzy," you're married a Loco foie; as we know by the inscription on the bride's cake, that you're a good Whig, we look for you to make friend Thoreau "use the mark" about right by next election. You see, there's a chance to gain a Whig vote, and even if you don't, why, he's a clever fellow, and we wish you both a long, happy and prosperous life.

In this county, on the 2d inst., by Rev. J. S. Higgins, Mr. ARNOLD M. HARLAN to Miss MARY E. POPE, daughter of Mr. John Pope.

In this county, on the 25th ult., Mr. JOHN T. HARRIS to Miss MARTHA E. WINTHROP.

In this county, on the 26th ult., Mr. ADAM CLEMENS to Miss MARGARET J. GOOD.

In this county, on the 27th ult., Mr. DAVID SWENNER to Miss AMANDA E. CLEMENS.

In Lexington, on the 28th ult., at the residence of Mr. D. L. Zimmerman, by Rev. Wm. Pratt, Mr. THOS. J. ZIMMERMAN, brother of the Senior editor of this paper, to Miss ELIZABETH P. McLEOD, all of that city.

In Independence, Mo., on the 18th ult., Mr. FRED. F. YOUNG, of this county, to Miss SUSAN M. RAY, of Missouri.

In Frankfort, Oct. 28, at the residence of Hon. Ben. Moore, Rev. B. MAYER, Esq., of Mississippi, to Miss CYNTHIA M. WHITE, daughter of Judge White, of Columbia, Ky.

GEO. P. NEWLIN,

RESPECTFULLY informs the citizens of Danville and vicinity, that he has taken a room over Mr. C. C. COVILL'S Store, and is prepared to perform all operations relating to Surgical and Mechanical Dentistry, on the most approved plans.

The principal stars which compose the Equestrian Troupe, are WILLIE MARIETTA, first lady Equestrian of the age; her beautiful roan horse, trained by herself, is from the finest stock in Europe, and has been for years the greatest favorite of Franco's in Paris.

Ladies who desire to excel in this interesting and graceful exercise should not lose the opportunity of witnessing the achievements of this artist.

MILLIE HENRIETTA, the accomplished Dresseur, Mr. W. WATERMAN, W. CORN, CHAMBERS, H. ROCKY, A. BURNETTE, T. O'BORN, and in fact, the whole establishment, is a vast repository of

NATURE AND ART.

The Managers deem it unnecessary to particularize the minor features of the performance. The unsurpassed appreciation which this company has met with in the principal cities of this vast establishment has visited, renders it useless.

Beef and Mutton.

Very arrangements.

THE subscriber returns his thanks to the citizens of Danville and vicinity for past patronage, and would respectfully inform them that having removed to DANVILLE, he will, in future, be enabled to attend to their wants more certainly and promptly than heretofore. He will punctually have in market,

Every Wednesday and Saturday Mornings,
Fresh and Fine Beef and Mutton
Which he will sell as low as he possibly can between market days he will Butcher Beef and Mutton wherever it is desired.

As he has to pay cash for his stock, he is under the necessity of requiring the money for his meats before it is taken from the market-house. Accounts will only be kept with those with whom it may be inconvenient to pay every morning, and who pay $5 or $10 in advance. He hopes none will fail him for the course he is forced to pursue.

HOTEL," on Main street, Harrodsburg, Ky., and that he is now prepared to entertain Travellers and regular boarders in a style that cannot be surpassed by any house in the interior of Kentucky. Every arrangement for the comfort and convenience of transient and resident patrons has been fully attended to, and he can confidently solicit and expect to receive a liberal share of public patronage.

Grab Orchard Springs

"HOPE HOUSE"

THE subscriber would respectfully inform the public, that he has taken for term of years a Tavern Stand kept by W. R. DeVan, in the town of Grab Orchard, and having refitted the house, and furnished it braghtly, he hopes to be able to accommodate those who may call on him in a style calculated to please.

Batterton House,

DANVILLE, KY.

HAVING sometimes since entirely completed this large and extensive establishment, and furnished it in the best and most approved style, with new and fashionable Furniture, &c., the subscriber wishes to inform the travelling public that he is now prepared to accommodate all who may call upon him. He deems it unnecessary to say anything in recommendation of his manner of keeping a public house, being satisfied to leave that to those who have or may hereafter patronize him.

There is attached to the House, a first-rate
STABLE, which is provided with

Hacks, Buggies and Riding Horses.
Of the best, for the accommodation of all who may wish to use them for pleasure or otherwise.

THE STABLES
For Louisville, Lexington, and Crab Orchard, arrive at and depart daily from his house.
